

Tending To Business

AGRA EARTH STATIONS is the name of a television satellite antenna business in which two Turlock area farmers have become partners in. They hope to be ready for customers by the first of the year.

Chester Klingel of Hughson and Darrell Ryan of Turlock are co-owners of the enterprise. They plan to offer two systems ranging in price from $2,000 to $6,000.

Klingel said he believes there is a strong market in this area for the satellite receivers, since rural residents do not have the option of subscribing to cable television service.
