Bodies of girls were moved to this wooded knoll after vicious slaying.

Ex-Prof Booked In Wife's Death

RENO — (AP) — Friedrich Abercrombie Von Bricken, 31, a former Tahoe College professor and member of a once internationally prominent family, surrendered today on a charge of involuntary manslaughter in the death of his wife last March.

Von Bricken appeared with his attorney at the courthouse in Reno. The charge was in a secret indictment returned late Friday by the Washoe County Grand Jury.

District Judge Grant L. Brown set bail at $300 and Von Bricken was released. "Traumatic Situation" Von Bricken had been free on $100,000 bail as a material witness in the death of his wife, Hope, 33, whose body was found on a snowy road two blocks from their Incline Village home at Lake Tahoe March 21.

The coroner said she died from "a traumatic situation — a blow by an outside force." He said her ribs and heart had been crushed. Authorities said the Von Bricken's had dined and drunk cocktails at the exclusive Racquet Club at Incline Village the evening Mrs. Von Bricken's body was found. Von Bricken was in bed asleep when deputies came to the family home later.

Former Officer Von Bricken is the son of Baron Wilhelm Von Bricken, a German consul officer in San Francisco before World War I. He is a former U.S. Army officer with degrees in law and business administration, and formerly taught economics and business classes at Tahoe College.

Two S.F. Men Held In Kidnap

Nurse Abducted And Raped

Two men were held in jail in San Rafael today on charges of raping and robbing a woman at Muir Beach in Marin County and then kidnapping her in her own car.

They are Edward McCullough, 29, and Robert J. Walker, 22, both of San Francisco, charged with a capital offense, kidnapping with bodily harm.

Marin Sheriff's Inspector Guido Battaglia said a man and a woman, a San Leandro nurse, were walking towards her car late Saturday night when two men stuck what they believed were guns in their backs, saying "This is a holdup."

The woman's companion was knocked unconscious and the nurse was beaten and raped. Then she was thrown in her car, driven to a San Francisco apartment, raped again and ordered back into her car.

She jumped from the moving car near Aquatic Park and collapsed. The two men were arrested about an hour later in her car in Santa Rosa when an officer spotted the license number given in all points bulletins.

Bad, Bald Bandit Hunted

An all-points bulletin was issued today for the third man wanted for shooting a policeman after a liquor store robbery in Hunters Point Friday.

Described as dangerous, the wanted man is Roy James Bradford, 23, black, with all the hair shaved from his head. He was wearing a new gray sharkskin suit. He has a long record of arrests for robbery and attempted murder here and was on probation for a robbery and burglary conviction.

His accomplices, James Everett Brown, 23, and Morris G. Ervin, 23, were arrested when more than 100 police and a helicopter spotted them after they fled between two housing project buildings.

The wounded officer, Mario Rosalacci, 41, fired six shots from his service revolver after the three armed robbers jumped from their getaway car, and then one of the robbers fired at him. The car had been rammed by a camper truck driven by the liquor store owner who chased the robbers.

Rosalacci was in good condition today at San Francisco General Hospital.

lice and then drove and walked to the picnic area.

In Grove When Furlong got near the picnic area, he saw a large crowd of motorists and police standing some distance away. There, in a grove of trees, lay the bodies of the two girls.

Furlong, a crew-cut, slim man in his late 30s, apologized to an Examiner reporter because the back yard of his home was in disarray. "We've been building a wing on the house so Debbie and the other children could each have a bedroom," he said, then added sadly, "I don't think I'll finish it."

He said the two girls had ridden their bicycles to the base of the hill, had chained the bikes to a fence and then had walked up the hill, carrying their lunch. The bikes were found later, where the girls had left them.

Neither girl appeared to have been sexually molested, police said, although an autopsy is still to be completed. Both were fully clothed, and both had been brutally stabbed and slashed.

Collins said only small bloodstains were found near the bodies, leading police to assume the girls were kidnapped, taken some distance away and slain — and then brought back to the scene.

The trail is almost inaccessible to any vehicle other than a motorcycle.
