

Crazy Horse Saloon Case to be Heard

"Topless" beer bar operator Ralph Antone Spinelli Jr. is slated to join three Crazy Horse Saloon dancers and a bartender in superior court Dec. 21 on multiple felony charges of conspiracy and lewd sexual acts.

Spinelli and his Crazy Horse quartet were given holding orders to appear in the high court following testimony by two agents of Alcoholic Beverage Control Board in Fairfield-Suisun Municipal Court Friday.

Specifically, Spinelli, 29, and bartender Preston Melvin Mashburn, 28, are being held to answer on eight counts of conspiracy to have lewd sexual acts performed in the Crazy Horse in September, and additionally charged with multiple counts of assisting bar dancers in lewdly expose themselves in public.

Dancers Cynthia Burke Carvalho, 27, Oakland; Patricia Ann Holly, 29; and Dawn Joyce Spencer, 32; are all accused of performing and conspiring to perform lewd exposures. Miss Holly and Miss Spencer are additionally charged with committing lewd acts.

Mary Jane Hitt, age unknown, is wanted in the case but has yet to appear in court.

Friday's holding orders were handed down by municipal court judge Curtis G. Singleton after a four-hour preliminary hearing. Singleton noted that the charges of lewd exposure, though not felony charges, would be handed over to the superior court jurisdiction for the remainder of the case.

In other court actions Friday, Terrence Moulton Reeves, 21, pleaded guilty to reduced misdemeanor charges of possession of marijuana. Judgement and sentencing is scheduled for Jan. 6 when a presentencing report from the probation office will be reviewed.

Charges against John Allen Pound, 21, a co-defendant in the case were dropped.

Charges of possessing pot were also dismissed in the case of Steven Kent Rosen, 19, on a motion by the district attorney's office.

Mary A. Woolford, 23, 716 Louisiana St., Suisun City, was ordered to serve two days in jail and placed on an 18-month probation for shoplifting at K-Mart Sept. 5.

John Richard Hull pleaded guilty to possessing a .22 caliber derringer in Suisun City without a license Nov. 4, and was referred to the probation department for a presentencing report Jan. 14.

Charges of trespassing on Grizzly Island Nov. 8 were dismissed in the case of Michael Gene Somsen, Walnut Creek, but the court asked that the defendant's gun be confiscated.
