Teen-age Couple Murdered

VALLEJO — A teen-age couple taking a drive after attending a high school Christmas party were ambushed and slain in a vicious double murder last night.

The bodies were found, 16-year-old Bettina Jensen was dead. Her companion, David Faraday, was shot.

She had been shot five times in the back, Faraday, who died in Valley General Hospital, was shot twice, once in the head and once in the back of the head.

The youth, a senior at Vallejo High School, was a member of the school's wrestling team. He died an English recipient of the God and Country Award, one of Scouting's highest awards.

His mother, Mrs. Jean Faraday, said from her home at 1930 Sherman Court, that she and David had gone to the concert at Hogan High School, where she was a student.

The bodies were found dated for very long, Mrs. Faraday said. David had a sister and brother.

A passing motorist on route to Benicia to pick up her children saw the bodies and called police.

Mr. and Mrs. Faraday had been driving between Vallejo and Fairfield.

Driver Hit With Pistol, Five Others Slugged

Two men in a car a bandits robbed a station of 46 gas and Area passengers bound for Nevada's gaming casinos last night and escaped with $10,000 in cash and a diamond necklace.

The youths followed a car.

They pistol-whipped the driver, a man in his 30s, and slugged five passengers during the hijack between Vallejo and Sacramento.

One victim said he wrestled a knife from one robber and the man began fighting lost in what appeared to be a struggle.

Allen Rose of San Francisco recounted: "The 'Give' side of us," he said. "We got him."

Another man grabbed him by the collar, hit him in the face and stabbed him in the chest.

"After I hit him he called it 'Gien,'" the man knew the driver was dead.

He lived at 123 Ridgewood Court and was the daughter of L.L. Col. and Mrs. Vernon Rose.

Rose said three shots were fired, but no one was struck.

Steinbeck Dies Of Heart Attack

NEW YORK (AP) — John Steinbeck, winner of the 1962 Nobel Prize for literature, is dead at 72. Author of "The Grapes of Wrath," his compassionate portrayal of migrant workers during the Great Depression, won the 1940 Pulitzer Prize.

Steinbeck died in his sleep Saturday morning at his home in Carmel, Calif., after suffering a heart attack and respiratory failure. He had been in failing health for several years and had moved into the city from his country home in Sag Harbor on Long Island.

His literary output included 24 novels (but it was the one novel, "The Grapes of Wrath," that represented his reputation in the pantheon of American letters).

For nearly 20 years he wrote,

Apollo Streaking to Yule Date With Moon

It's a Small World From Way Out

Compiled from AP and UPI

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (UPI) — A single tiny probe of earth in history's greatest adventure, carried three astronauts into interplanetary space today at the end of man's first voyage around the moon.

"Boy, it's really hard to describe how it feels," said Capt. Frank Borman, commander of the Apollo 8 crew. "It's like you're flying around the world in a glimpse of earth's gravity."

"I'm looking out my center window and the window is big gear than earth," said Lovell, 29, 600 miles away at the command module. "It's faster and deeper than men have ever been before."

At 7:51 a.m. EST, Apollo 8 sped off from earth's orbit. The crew set a new altitude record for man's first flight around the 85-mile mark set in 1966 by the Gemini 11 pilots.

The power was provided by the largest solid-fuel Saturn 1B super-rocket that had pushed Apollo 7 into space with a earth-shaking roar at 7:41 a.m. EST (8:41 a.m. PST).

From the tracking station in Hawaii, reported they had actually seen the fire engine at a propellant Apollo 8 toward the end of its flight. The firing occurred over Hawaii in darkness.

"You're on your way — you're really in your way now," said flight director Chris Kraft, sending the astronauts off on the second burn.

"Roger, we look good here," came the reply.

For nearly three hours, Berman, Lovell and Anders were busy with checklist and recheck and rechecking, making certain all went smoothly. They were committed to a potentially hazardous quarter-million-mile journey around the moon, with where man has never ventured before.

They reported Apollo 8 was perfect and the Mission Control Center gave them the go-ahead for the historic step that propelled them toward the moon, the alluring destination of the space age.

The third stage had provided the energy to drift Apollo 8 into earth orbit, and the 90-foot-long section remained attached to the nose of the two orbits that the astronauts checked the systems.

At 8:45 a.m. EST, the third stage was restarted a second time and after a five-minute burn, the Apollo 8 module sped from about 17,400 to 24,700 miles per hour, the velocity needed to overcome the fling of earth's gravity.

Half an hour after the fire engine at a propellant Apollo 8 separated from the spacecraft and Commander Borman turned Apollo 8 around and headed back with the spent stage for a second period.

On the second landing on the moon mission, the Apollo craft will have to fly up to the burned-out stage and then up the 100-foot-long module stowed on top of it. The lunar module is the taxi that the moonrakers could use to get around the surface of the moon.

The Apollo 8 third stage has a separate path, that way to take it into endless orbit around the sun. The separation occurred
