

Two Split Reward For $25,000

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — A young library clerk and a parks maintenance man Wednesday split a $25,000 reward for providing information which led to the conviction in the knife slaying of three teenage girls.

Santa Clara County Sheriff James Geary presented checks for $12,500 each to Kenneth E. Williamson, 37, a county parks employee, and Judy Wroblewski, 24, a clerk-typist at San Jose State College library.

Geary said their help was vital to the arrest last April of Karl Francis Werner, 19, in the Easter Sunday slaying of killed, Geary said, while Miss Kathy Bilek, 18, in a Saratoga park.

Werner, a senior at San Jose State College, pleaded guilty in Superior Court Sept. 1 to the Bilek killing and also to the August 1969 muders of Debra Furlong, 14, and Kathy Snoozy, 15. He was sentenced Sept. 24 to life imprisonment.

Geary said without the two informants' help, "we might have still been out in the boondocks hunting for the killer."

Williamson told authorities he had spotted Warner's car in the park where Miss Bilek was killed, Geary said, while Miss Wroblewski reported having been accosted there by Werner earlier in the year.

Both said they had no immediate plans to spend the $12,500, which is more than either earns in a year. "I'm not running out to buy a mink coat or a big car," said Miss Wroblewski.

The reward money was provided by International Business Machines Corporation, FMC Corporation, and the San Jose Mercury-News. Miss Bilek's father is an IBM engineer.
